++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mild with outbreaks of rain slowly spreading south.

Today:
A cloudy start to Tuesday with rain affecting Cumbria and slowly moving south through the day, turning lighter and a little patchier as it does so. Perhaps rather murky over the high ground. Feeling mild with a brisk south-westerly breeze. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain will affect Lancashire, Merseyside and Cheshire this evening and early overnight. Drier across Cumbria, and drier weather with cloud breaks extending to most parts later. Some fog. Winds easing. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Wednesday:
Early mist and fog clearing to leave a largely dry day, though isolated showers feeding in from the Irish Sea. Variable cloud and sunny spells. Feeling fresher than Tuesday. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Overnight fog possible into Thursday but staying dry. Turning windier on Friday with some outbreaks of rain before settling down again on Saturday with sunny spells.
